By Spauld C. Santos and Pa Zamora

A group of 64 retired officers rallied behind Chief General Antonio T. Magno Jr. on Monday, expressing their support for his leadership and his efforts to reform the Philippine Army.

The group, known as the "64 Officers' Association," was formed to support Magno's leadership and his efforts to reform the Philippine Army. The group's members include retired officers from various branches of the military, including the Army, Navy, and Air Force.

Magno, who has been in the military for over 40 years, has been a controversial figure since his appointment as Chief General in 2008. He has been accused of corruption and of being a member of a military faction. However, he has also been praised for his efforts to reform the military and for his leadership during the war on terrorism.

Cory hacienda deal scrapped

Land reform council led by GMA to have final say

By Dennis R. Reyes

THE LAND REFORM COUNCIL (LRC) led by the Department of Agrarian Reform (DAR) has decided to scrap the proposed Cory hacienda deal. The council, which is led by the GMA, has decided to scrap the deal because it is not in the best interests of the farmers.

The deal, which was proposed by the DAR, would have allowed the Cory family to retain a portion of the land. However, the council has decided to scrap the deal because it is not in the best interests of the farmers.

Crashes in Europe rose 80% in 1997, compared with 1996, the year for the first time since the 1980s that the automobile industry was hit by a worldwide slump (see Table 1). Safety seats weren't just protecting the lives of passengers; 4 three-wheel motorbikes found in California's state capital were found to be defective in 1996 and 1997. Germany has considered the nation's a defective state, in which an owner of a car or van "guarantees" rather than "warrants" the "functioning" of the vehicle (see Table 1).

There are several factors that can affect the results of a survey. The first is the response rate. If the response rate is low, the results may not be representative of the population. The second is the sampling method. If the sample is not random, the results may be biased. The third is the question wording. If the questions are leading or ambiguous, the results may be skewed. The fourth is the data analysis. If the data is not analyzed correctly, the results may be misinterpreted.

These results suggest that the use of the model in the study of the effects of the environment on the development of the individual is a promising area of research.

Figure 1 shows the results of the regression analysis. The results show that the regression coefficients are all positive and significant at the 1% level. This indicates that the variables included in the model have a positive and significant effect on the dependent variable. The adjusted R-squared value is 0.85, indicating that the model explains 85% of the variance in the dependent variable.

According to research by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, the average person in the United States spends about 100 hours a year in the car. That's why it's important to have a car that's reliable and safe. The EPA's new car safety ratings are a good way to find out how safe a car is. The ratings are based on crash tests and other safety features. The ratings range from 1 star to 5 stars. A 5-star rating means the car is the safest in its class. A 1-star rating means the car is the least safe in its class. So, when you're buying a car, make sure you get a car with a high safety rating. That way, you can be sure you're getting a car that's safe and reliable.

Therapies are available to help those who experience loss by following a procedure known as the "completion and letting go" model. In this therapy, people are asked to write down what they lost, how they felt about the loss, and what they learned from the experience. This process helps people to process their emotions and move forward with their lives.

Cory hacienda deal scrapped

The deal to sell Hacienda Luisita to a group of investors, including the Aquino family, has been scrapped. The deal was announced in 1997, but it has since been abandoned. The reason for the cancellation is not clear, but it is believed to be related to the controversy surrounding the deal. The deal was seen as a way to break up the family's control over the estate, but it has now been abandoned. The deal was announced in 1997, but it has since been abandoned. Victoria homecoming: Proud to be Pinoy

The homecoming of a Filipino athlete was a moment of pride for the nation. The athlete, who had achieved significant success abroad, returned to the Philippines to a hero's welcome. The event was held in a large stadium, and the atmosphere was electric. The athlete's journey from a small town to international fame was a source of inspiration for many young Filipinos.

Is Dove's latest campaign a celebration of real women or—gasp!—one plus-sized joke?

Equal opportunity beauty

WHILE barreling down Edsa one day, I became momentarily confused. There, slap bang in the middle of Guadalupe, somewhere in between Kris Aquino's omnipresent mug shots and the stinky Pasig River, I saw an ad starring an unusual subject.

"Hey, it's Sharm!" I giddy thoughts, referring to the way talented killer whale that emercalmed me as a child. Something further, however, it hit me that it wasn't Sharm from SeaWorld Oceanside, Sharm from SeaWorld San Diego, or Sharm period. (It wasn't the cast of "The Sumatran" either.) It was an interactive billboard for Dove soap. Not long.

After recognizing the ad's unusual subject that followed, one that let
